DETAILED ACTION

1. The amendment filed August 21, 2003 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 12, are "mast stand" (line 3) and "common mast stand" (line 9) the same?

In claim 12, are "at least one arm" (line 4), "a plurality of arms" (line 8) and "said arm" (line 10) the same?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-3 and 13-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shriver (the US Patent No. 4,167,740, cited by Applicant).

The Shriver reference teaches in figures 1-8 a relay antenna mast for a cellular radio telecommunications system, the mast being characterized in that it comprises: a mast stand (C) ; at least one arm (D) pivotally mounted on the mast stand (C) and carrying at least one antenna (F); and means for locking the arm in a position in which the antenna(s) is/are in a high position (figure 1); the arm (D) being suitable, when the locking means are disengaged, for being tilted about its pivot axis (36) to a position in which at least one antenna is at height enabling it to be worked on by an operative at the foot of the mast. The arm (D) extends on either side of its pivot axis (36) and carries counterweight-forming means (45) on its branch opposite from its branch carrying the antenna(s). The counterweight-forming means (45) are adjustable in mass and/or in translation along the arm (figure 2). Figure 1 shows a plurality of antennas.

6. Claims 1, 8-10 and 13-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bond (the US Patent No. 4,151,534, cited by Applicant).

The Bond reference teaches in figure 1 a relay antenna mast for a cellular radio telecommunications system, the mast being characterized in that it comprises: a mast stand (82) ; at least one arm (12) pivotally mounted on the mast stand (82) and carrying at least one antenna (66); and means for locking the arm in a position in which the antenna(s) is/are in a high position (figure 9); the arm (12) being suitable, when the locking means are disengaged, for being tilted about its pivot axis to a position in which at least one antenna is at height enabling it to be worked on by an operative at the foot of the mast. Figure 9 shows a platform comprising a relay antenna mast and a protective guard rail 100. The antenna mast and the guard rail are carried on the top of a building. Figure 1 shows a plurality of antennas.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 4-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
8. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: none of the cited art discloses a linkage comprising two elements, one of the elements carrying means for fixing a retaining device enabling the operative to control tilting of the arm.

Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments filed August 21, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that Shriver and Bond do not disclose a mast for a cellular radio telecommunications system or at least one antenna of a cellular radio telecommunication system, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Since Shriver and Bond do show all claimed structure, 102 rejection is proper.

Conclusion

10. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

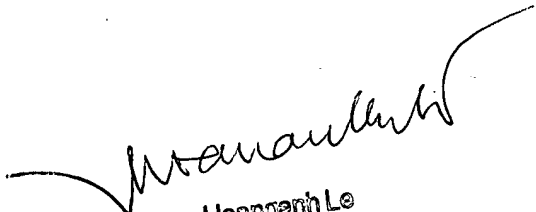

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
